

Choosing The Right IEEE-SA Award

The IEEE-SA International Award

For an IEEE-SA Individual member (who is also an IEEE member) who has made an extraordinary contribution to establishing the IEEE-SA as a world-class leader in standardization.

The IEEE-SA Standards Medallion

For a major contributor to the development of standards in the IEEE fields of interest.

The IEEE-SA Emerging Technology Award

For an individual, working group, or company that is an IEEE-SA member and has acted as the champion, project initiator, or prominent contributor for producing an IEEE-SA balloted standards document that: (a) is the first, or one of few such activities for the technology, industry, or market for which it is targeted; (b) represents a technology, industry, or market where broad consensus agreements are not yet widely deployed, or not yet fully commercialized; (c) extends the IEEE-SA standards portfolio and has positive market relevance; and (d) places IEEE in a leadership position.

The IEEE-SA Corporate Award

For an entity member that has provided outstanding leadership and contribution to the IEEE-SA.

The IEEE-SA Lifetime Achievement Award

For an individual whose achievements include:

- Significant technical contributions to, and an extraordinary career in, his/her field of interest;
- Outstanding service to the IEEE-SA, enabling achievement of its objectives; and
- Demonstrated commitment to standards development of at least 15 years.

The IEEE-SA Sponsor Award

For an IEEE Standard Sponsor that has shown exceptional support of the entity standards development process.

The IEEE-SA Distinguished Service Award

For a member of the IEEE-SA Standards Board (SASB), or a past member going back as far as five years from the current date, who has demonstrated meritorious and distinguished service to the SASB and its programs.

The IEEE-SA Conformity Assessment Award

For major contributions to the development and promotion of IEEE standards products through conformity assessment activities.

The IEEE EAB/IEEE-SA Standards Education Award

For an individual, company, or organization that made significant contributions in support of IEEE Standards Education.

Candidates Not Eligible For An IEEE-SA Award

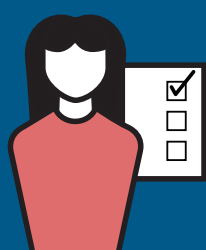

No awards will be given posthumously.

A past recipient of the award for which the nomination is being submitted

An employee of IEEE

A voting member of the IEEE-SA Board of Governors

A current member of the IEEE-SA Awards and Recognition Committee